Third Sunday in Ordinary Time

JANUARY 26, 2025

Nehemiah 8:2-4a,5-6,8-10;
 1 Corinthians 12:12-30 or 12: 12-14, 27;
 Luke 1:1-4;4:14-21

Except for Lent and Easter, all of our Sunday Gospels will be taken from the Gospel of Luke this year. Luke is the only non-Jewish writer of any book of the Bible. He was well-educated; he was a doctor; he accompanied Paul on some of his missionary journeys. Luke has a sense of delicacy, and he often smooths the "rough" language of Mark. He omits anything which would be offensive to good taste. His Gospel emphasizes the Lord's mercy and forgiveness. Luke takes note of secular history, and places Jesus in historical perspective. Women play a very important part in Luke's Gospel. Remember these characteristics as you read Luke this year.

Today's Gospel contains the first four verses of the Gospel; then it skips to the time immediately after Jesus' baptism by John the Baptist. Jesus goes to his hometown synagogue, opens the scroll of Isaiah to give the reading. He then sits down and proclaims that the reading has been fulfilled in their presence! The Spirit of the Lord is upon him. He is anointed to proclaim Good News to all.

The first reading today describes the renewal of the covenant under Ezra about 450 B.C. Moses had received the Torah from the Lord on Mt. Sinai about the year 1290 B.C. Then the Israelites had promised to be loyal to the covenant, but they were not. Because of their constant infidelity, the nation was destroyed, and they were captives at Babylon from 587 to 538 B.C. God delivered them; they returned home; and under Ezra they renewed their pledge of loyalty to the covenant. "Amen" means "with all my heart and soul, I agree to this!"

The second reading continues Paul's discussion on the use of all our gifts and talents for the building up of the Church. The Church is the Body of Christ. Although we shall use the short form of the reading at Mass today, read and reflect on the longer form. Each of us receives the one Body of Christ in Holy Communion. We are united with him. Through our union with the Person or Body of Christ, we become one Body in him! Therefore we must show our unity with each other by our bonds of love and caring. Each person must seek to contribute to the upbuilding of the Body of Christ, and not to tearing it apart.

3RD SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

I hope that this week finds you well and warm! During the bitter cold of January, we are reminded of our dependence on the objective truths given us by Almighty God. Cold temperatures can be uncomfortable, freezing temperatures can be deadly. That reality is an objective truth, time tested and revealed as true. In the reading from Ezra the men, women, and children old enough to understand were presented with the Law and they all listened attentively. It is important that the Church continue to teach God's objective truths and the Laws of the Church. This is as it has always been, a life-long process.

When we are very young, we have prayers to memorize and the postures of worship to learn. As juveniles, we begin to learn Bible stories and the catechism and we become servers. As teenagers we learn how to live out the Corporal and Spiritual works of mercy, putting our faith into action. In college, through groups like Focus and Newman Centers, we continue to learn about the faith while also learning to live on our own. As new parents we learn about our faith as we teach our children. Often the faith truly becomes alive as we journey as a family to live out the objective truths and laws we have been taught all our lives. As life continues, we find more time for Bible studies, prayer groups, and we have time to reflect on how we have lived out our faith life. We recognize times when we could have been stronger in our faith. We may even come to recognize where we rejected our faith and accepted subjective truths over God's objective truths.

In writing to Theophilus, Luke testifies to the certainty of the teachings that have been given. That according to his custom Jesus went to the synagogue on the sabbath. Even Jesus kept the objective truth that we are to keep the sabbath, the Lord's Day. This is an objective truth that we, yes me included, can let our subjective truth talk us out of. There are many good reasons we may have for not attending Holy Mass: Illness, weather, an emergency, etc. But to simply accept the attitude of "I don't need to go" or "I don't get anything out of it" is not OK. We have a duty to attend Mass on Sundays and Holy Days of Obligation as part of keeping the Lord's Day a holy day of rest, and that is an objective truth.

I hope that you also realize how important it is that we gather as a community of faith. When you are not at Mass you are missed. Our communion is not full when people are missing. Many people who have been away from Mass for a long time are returning. People have found that subjective truth does not lead to truth at all and are again seeking God's objective truths. There are many programs, apps, and books to welcome people back to the faith and to help them find the answers they seek. Let us also help by providing a warm and welcoming environment where God is found.

Catholic Schools Week is here! The theme this year is "Teach me your ways O Lord." I thank all of you for making St. Francis Solanus School a way for us to continue to pass on the faith we have been given. Offering a quality education in a Catholic environment is an important part of our parish mission and I celebrate Catholic Schools Week with all of you.

St. Francis Solanus – Pray for us!

In Christ our Redeemer,

Fr. Bruce Scott
