Fifteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time

JULY 13, 2025

Deuteronomy 30:10-14;

Colossians 1:15-20;

Luke 10:25-37

Our faith is eminently simple. Love God, and love neighbor. We do not need to be geniuses or doctors of theology to do this. We don't need to go to a faraway country to find some esoteric guru to explain to us the mysteries of life. We simply need to love God with all our heart, soul, strength, and mind, and to love our neighbor as ourselves. In the first reading, Moses tells us that if we really did this, all the nations of the world would see how truly wise we are.

In the Gospel, Jesus combines two commandments of the Torah as the summary of all morality and virtue: Deuteronomy 6:5 tells us to love God with heart, soul, strength, and mind. Leviticus 19:18 tells us to love our neighbor as ourselves.

Sometimes, however, we like to put limits on love, so Jesus told the parable of the Good Samaritan. Jews and Samaritans hated each other; yet here a Samaritan looks after a bloodied Jew when his fellow Jews looked away. That kind of love is to be the measure of our own: Providing for those in need, even if they are enemies.

Having said that faith is eminently simple, our second reading is one of the most profound passages in the entire Bible! The background is the belief of the Jews that the Torah was the eternal, unchanging, self-manifestation of God.

From all eternity, God spoke his word in the Torah. The Torah was the model of all creation, and well as the cause and purpose of all creation. All things were made for the Torah and unto the Torah. The Torah was delivered to Moses in time, on Mt. Sinai, but it was eternal.

Paul had been a Pharisee. When he became Christian, he simply applied to Jesus Christ everything that he had previously believed about the Torah: Jesus Christ is the image of the invisible God. He (not the Torah) is the first born of creation. All things were created in him and for him (and not in and for the Torah.)

Everything that makes God to be God resides bodily in Jesus Christ. He is the "fullness" of the Father. Faith is simple enough for the humblest of persons; yet it is profound enough to boggle the mind of the greatest scholar!

15TH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

The Good Samaritan story is probably one of the most famous passages in the bible. We think it's a story of being kind to one another, which it is in a way, but it goes way deeper than that. This story is really saying that we are the man who fell victim to robbers, by our sin, and that Jesus is the Good Samaritan who comes and saves us and takes us to the Church and pays the price for our healing and care.

This embodies kindness to one another in that we are called to be another Christ in this world. It is not just kindness we are called to, but self-sacrificial love. We are rescued and we bring others to Christ and His Church to be rescued.

I want to thank Linda Zanger and family who re-upholstered the insides of the two niches for the relics in the side altars. They had not been done in a very long time, most likely original, and the fabric was not only falling down and apart but was turning to red dust and making a mess.

I also want to thank Rob Gengenbacher and family at Glass One for replacing the glass on the front of the niches so we can display the relics. For many years these relics remained covered to protect them from the sunlight. The glass that Glass One put in is called Museum Glass, which is protective against the UV rays of the sun. It also is so clear and perfect that it almost seems there is no glass. Wow. Please make sure you take the opportunity to come venerate those relics now that they are cleaned up and visible, and say a prayer of thanks for these parishioners for making this possible. St. Victor and St. Vitalis, pray for us.

July 14 is a very special day for our parish! It is the feast day of St. Francis Solanus (although in Hispanic countries it is July 24, and for the Franciscans in the USA it is July 17). We celebrate our saint's feast day this weekend, as the feast day of the parish can be moved to the nearest weekend as it is a Solemnity for our Parish. This isn't the only exciting celebration for our parish, as it is also Fr. Ken Ahanonu's ordination anniversary. He is celebrating 13 years a priest being ordained July 14, 2012, for the Diocese of Nnewi Nigeria. We are so grateful for his ministry here at St. Francis Solanus. Ad multos annos! To many more years! Please keep him in your prayers as we celebrate this wonderful gift to us. St. Francis Solanus, pray for him. St. Francis Solanus, pray for us all. Happy Namesake Feast Day to you all!

Fr. Arisman

Thought for the Week: Discipline

The virtue of discipline allows us to maximize our contribution to the world. Joy is the byproduct of realizing our God-given potential. You will never have more joy than discipline. By choosing discipline ourselves, we suffer less and cause less suffering for others.
